

The Palais de la Méditerranée had the pleasure to host this year, an international conference of one of the fast growing French cosmetic company.

The event is usually held in one of the company SPA resorts, but this year's size of event would not fit any of them.

The chosen hotel needed to have an elegant, dynamic and flexible ambiance, to match with brand and image on the industry nowadays.

Their requirement: a city hotel, almost 100 rooms per night for almost a week, large and flexible meeting room and 10 break out rooms, lunches and dinner in superb modern setting.

We have welcomed guests from all over the world late August, great timing to spend studios but relaxing moments on warm and sunny Riviera.

A local agency based in Marseille, was chosen to orchestrate the event and to work with our team in the hotel. It was a wonderful experience for both parties. The entire team of the hotel has shown its real capacity of teaming with the agency's staff in order to offer, together, an outstanding event to our end client.

At the end of summer, though it is known to be, a period specially dedicated for transient clientele, the Palais de la Méditerranée has offered a lot of professionalism in delivering a successful event to our business clients.

A specific IT room was specially formatted for the entire week in order to give an extra added value on this special annual event.

Whether guests were arriving from Hong Kong, Paris or New York, all of them were amazed of the beautiful and versatile blue of the Mediterranean sea painted in front of them each morning of the event. The Palais of the la Méditerranée is without a doubt the best hotel in the capital of the French Riviera with its ideal location in front of the sea, its modern facilities and attentive service.

Attention to details and a great sense of communication throughout the property are surely the main assets of the Palais de la Méditerranée.

These same assets are what the management and the entire team aim to maintain and to improve each day.
